

Memory stays useful for validity, but its max-seeking effect collapses late

Selected-lesson rollouts compared with no-memory rollouts from the same parent.

Validity gain was positive in 32/33 steps. In the eight late steps, mean tail uplift was negative in all eight.